

New Football Official Starting Out Guide

Joining a football officiating crew offers a rewarding experience that extends beyond the game itself. As an official, you have the unique opportunity to give back to the community while earning additional income. This role imparts essential life skills such as discipline, teamwork, and integrity while also fostering camaraderie among the officiating crew. Together, you will create lasting bonds, ensure the game is played fairly and safely, and contribute to the growth and success of both the sport and its players.

The learning curve can be steep if you've never officiated a football game. As you embark on this journey, never hesitate to ask a fellow official any questions, however basic they may seem. Save your questions for an appropriate moment. We learn by doing and improve each other!

Below, you will find a list of items you need to be successful. If you are starting on the Auxiliary team by working the clock or chain crew, you only need the items listed under the "Auxiliary Crew Uniform" section. If you plan to officiate games this season, you will need the items listed under the "Football Official Uniform" section. There are many online options for purchasing equipment, with some websites offering complete sets of uniform pieces and equipment. Be a discerning consumer and shop around, as prices vary between websites. Using Smitty's brand shirts is recommended for their superior quality. A list of stores that cater to sports officials is provided.

Lastly, keep track of all your receipts so you can deduct your expenses from your earnings, saving you money when you file your tax return.
